Chair's report

Deep budget cuts, uncertainty and a fast changing policy context left much of the East Midlands voluntary sector with a difficult year, with the gloom of further cuts to follow. One East Midlands was far from exempt from these pressures whilst also seeking to deliver against the increasing demand for support from our members.

In 2011/12 the Board made some difficult decisions. We approved a significant deficit budget at the start of the financial year, setting robust targets for our CEO. Our view was that, in a time of sector need, we should invest some of our reserves while we also work out whether a regional approach continues to be sustainable in the longer term. The Board also took the decision to introduce paid membership in order to help sustain our communications service; the role most valued by our members.

However, our investment reaped rewards and despite eating into some of our reserves we have emerged with greater clarity on our future role and having retained a healthy and engaged membership.

As we have entered 2012 the Board are keeping tight financial control of a breakeven budget and focussing One East Midlands efforts on activity that both supports and levers resources into the East Midlands VCS.

At the end of my third year as Chair of One East Midlands, I am delighted that we continue to provide a valuable service and to have this opportunity to commend the work of the organisation over 2011/12.

Fiona White
Chair, One East Midlands

Chief Executive's report

I think it is fair to say that 2011/12 was not a good year to be:

- a) regional in focus or;
- b) VCS infrastructure

However, with a talented and hardworking staff team alongside me and a committed and passionate Board providing support and guidance we made a pretty good year of it in the end.

At the start of the year the One EM Board were clear that we would not continue if a forward role for the organisation, that adds significant value for our membership, could not be found. It was found! Our members told us they still needed our help and our statutory partners looked to us more and more as they needed to build or maintain connections with the sector for the benefit of communities.

So the future is looking good.

Rachel Quinn
Chief Executive, One East Midlands

About

One East Midlands is the regional network for the Voluntary and Community Sector (VCS) in the East Midlands region.

Our role is to ensure that all elements of the VCS play a valued role in the development of policies and strategies that impact on the individuals and communities in our region. In particular, we prioritise our support to those parts of the VCS with specialist perspectives and knowledge or working with those communities facing most disadvantage. This role is encapsulated in our mission statement:

'Maximise the role of the VCS as an influential, valued and equal partner in all policy development.'

One EM is a membership organisation and our members set our purpose and strategic direction. We have four core strategic functions that enable us to deliver our mission:

1. Influencing

Creating an environment for the VCS to exert strategic influence through:

- Developing strategic links;
- Shaping policy and;
- Advocating the role of the VCS.

2. Enabling

Developing the sector 'landscape' to:

- Enable and support collaboration;
- Develop consensus and raise collective voice;
- Support networks and sector representatives;
- Facilitate wider 'third sector' consensus;
- And leveraging resources.

3. Communicating

Ensuring greater understanding through effective communication:

- Website and e-bulletin services;
- Magazines;
- Promoting the sector and our members.

4. Strengthening

Supporting the development of the sector through:

- Training;
- Sharing best practice and supporting collaboration;
- Events and networking opportunities.

One EM works closely with a wide range of third sector specialist networks across the region. Our role is to understand the membership, priorities and linkages for each of these networks and ensure that opportunities for them to deliver against these priorities are made available. This role is carried out through four types of activity:

1. Developing strategic links and creating opportunities for the East Midlands VCS to represent and embed issues and concerns at the regional level, advocating for specialist representation on key regional skills bodies.

2. Working closely with regional VCS and wider third sector networks to understand both specialist and generic sub-sector priorities.
3. Linking regional and local networks with other specialist networks where there are shared objectives to increase voice and influence and reduce deep inequality in the region
4. Informing the VCS on general policy and strategic developments at the regional level and coordinating VCS perspectives.

One EM directly facilitates some, but not all of these networks. Where we do not directly facilitate networks, we will work collaboratively to ensure strong links and shared understanding. One EM provides direct facilitation support to networks which are cross specialism (e.g. drawing together members from several different networks to achieve a shared objective), which meet an identified gap at regional level or have been identified as a development priority by our members. Whether networks are One EM or sector led, they must all have the following characteristics:

- Member led, with democratic mechanisms for governance arrangements
- Accountable to members and stakeholders
- Open to further membership by organisations with similar aims and objectives.

Communications

Online

Alongside the One EM website, located at www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk, receiving an average of 2,500+ visits per month in 11/12, One EM’s social media continued to flourish, with over 500 followers on Twitter, nearly 13,000 visits to our YouTube channel and our blog receiving over 200 visitors in both February and March 2012. During 2012, we also launched our own network on Linked-In.

E-bulletins

In addition to the fortnightly news and training & events e-bulletins and the monthly policy e-bulletin, which are circulated to over 1,000 email addresses, One EM continued to circulate monthly specialist e-bulletins to the BME, Health & Social Care, EVDC (England Volunteering Development Council), Community Empowerment and, in conjunction with EMFAN, the e-bulletin for the EMFAN network during 11/12. For further information on any of the e-bulletins email information@one-em.org.uk.

In print

One EM produced two issues of our Insight magazine during 11/12, which were individually sponsored by the Forward Communities and EMFAN projects. In addition, Forward Communities published its final project report Ducks in a Row. All One EM publications can be downloaded at www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/oem-publications. We also produced over 20 case studies in 11/12 on various VCS organisations in the region. All One EM case studies can be downloaded at www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/case-studies.

Membership

Membership Survey

Following One EM's first membership survey in May 2010, we carried out a second survey of our members in November 2011 to discover their views on our work, purposes and values, influence and how our services can be improved. The survey also questioned respondents on the introduction of paid membership.

Key findings from the survey, which received 50 responses, included:

- 95% of respondents rated that we delivered our information function well, followed by "maintaining regional networks" (62%) and "advocating in the region" (61%).
- 71% of respondents rated our events in 2011 as excellent or good.
- 91% of respondents rated our website and e-bulletin as excellent or good.
- Over 60% of respondents agreed that we fulfilled our purpose within our core values.
- 75% of respondents strongly agreed or agreed that we had made them more aware of opportunities for them to influence.
- 40% of respondents, who responded positively about the introduction of paid membership, would prefer paid membership to be on a sliding scale with smaller organisations paying less.

New Membership Scheme

In February 2012, One EM re-launched our membership scheme, introducing paid membership. Membership charges were introduced to help sustain our core functions. Following member consultation, the scheme was made available on a sliding scale to ensure that small VCS organisations continued to benefit from free or low cost membership. At the same time, we also simplified our membership scale from three down to two categories of Full Members, open to all VCS organisations in the region, and Friends, who are non-VCS organisations supporting the work of One EM.

In addition, we introduced a new range of membership benefits, including:

- Free email bulletins, Insight magazines and policy briefings
- Free networking events
- Free attendance at the annual policy conference
- 25% discount on all other One EM events
- Priority access and discounts on training
- Reduced cost event and job advertising.

Following the launch of our new membership scheme, at the end of 11/12, we had 125 members. For further information on becoming a member visit www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/membership.

EMFAN

Expert funding advice is essential for growing and sustaining VCS action in the East Midlands. With good advice groups can attract funding to deliver projects and services that help their communities.

Funded by the Big Lottery Fund, East Midlands Funding Advice Network (EMFAN) exists to ensure VCS groups get the best possible funding advice, to encourage investment in civil society in the East Midlands. The network aims to make sure funding advisors have all the information, training and contacts they need to do an excellent job.

During the summer of 2011 EMFAN launched two new websites to improve funding advice in the region. Fanoogle, located at www.fanoogle.org.uk, aims to help VCS organisations find funding advice services in their local area.

The second website Funding Monitor, located at www.fundingmonitor.org.uk, aims to enable anyone involved in grant funding in the region to share information and statistics about the process in order to improve future grant applications.

Training of and sharing information with funding advice workers remains an important part of the work of EMFAN and in 11/12 this was no exception, with accredited training taking place across the region, alongside two regional network events focusing on advising groups on sustainability, and the future of funding advice. The 300 network members also received monthly e-bulletins, providing updates on both the network and county, regional and national funding news.

At the end of 2011 the management of the EMFAN project transferred from the EMFAN Manager, Jonny Gutteridge, who had lead the project since its launch in September 2009, to the One EM staff team who have continued to move the EMFAN project forward.

Funding for the EMFAN project continues until September 2013 and One EM will continue to develop its services further. For further information visit www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/emfan.

The Funding Monitor

Forward Communities

Funded by the Learning and Skills Improvement Service (LSIS) and carried out by New College Stamford and One EM, the Forward Communities Project began in June 2010 and was completed in December 2011.

Key to the project was the 'dual perspective' approach, with work carried out in both the further education and VCS, and during its lifetime the project engaged with a total of 193 individuals, including contributors from 16 of the 18 regional FE colleges, 103 VCS organisations, six East Midlands local authorities and one district council.

The methodology the project adopted included:

- Face-to-face interviews with FE colleges (focusing on community provision) and local authority adult and community learning services;
- Questionnaires to FE colleges, VCS organisations and VCS infrastructure support organisations;
- An interactive partnership event on cultivating joint working, and;
- A network focus group event with EMFEC (East Midlands Further Education Council) on community development.

The primary objective of the joint project was to develop an understanding of the current relationships between VCS learning providers and FE colleges. The project made recommendations on how this could be improved to develop joint working opportunities, which enhanced delivery in both sectors, including activity to explore the development of progression pathways.

What became obvious over the 18 months of the project was that there was a real willingness amongst those involved in learning and skills, to work together more collaboratively, despite the barriers identified. All sectors acknowledged that they need help in navigating the sometimes difficult conditions that can prevail when embarking on a successful collaboration. New College Stamford and One EM were encouraged by both the aspiration and appetite of organisations to finding solutions to more equitable partnership working.

Health & Social Care Network

Hosted by One EM and funded by the Department of Health (DH) through Regional Voices, the East Midlands Third Sector Health & Social Care Network fosters a more progressive approach to the development of health and social care provision in the region.

As a strategic partner to the DH, the network is an opportunity for third sector organisations to influence health & social care policy and delivery by:

- Linking third sector organisations with the relevant, new and developing health structures
- Building the capacity and capability of the third sector to engage with the health and social care agenda.
- Acting as a critical friend to health decision makers by providing coordinated responses to consultations and programmes.
- Developing regional health forums; bringing together third sector organisations with an interest in health by facilitating communication and collaboration.

The East Midlands network increased in membership from 155 in March 2010 to 240 members by March 2011. Members provide community services, regenerate neighbourhoods, support individuals, promote volunteering and tackle discrimination. Network members have received a dedicated health & social care monthly e-bulletin since October 2010.

During the year, the East Midlands network supported a number of DH events with the region's VCS, including a listening event on the new Health and Social Care Bill, a Future Forum event on the transition of LINKs and the future role of Health Watch.

The network also responded on behalf of its members to the Public Health White Paper, the Joint Strategic Needs Assessment and Health & Wellbeing Strategies consultations, and produced a series of briefings including on GP consortia and the health transition.

Other work by the network during 11/12 included:

- Research on the effectiveness of the roll out of personal budgets across the region
- A series of interviews on the success of the two local HealthWatch pathfinders in Derby and Leicestershire
- The collation of examples of Health & Wellbeing Boards working with the VCS
- Mapping of VCS involvement with Clinical Commissioning Groups.

For further information on the East Midlands Third Sector Health & Social Care Network visit www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/healthandsocialcare.

Other Networks

BME

During 2011/12 One EM continued to use earned income to support the East Midlands Third Sector BME (Black, Minority Ethnic) network, which is currently unfunded. During this time the network increased to 130 members, who all receive a dedicated monthly BME e-bulletin. For further information visit www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/bme.

Community Empowerment

In Spring 2011, One EM took over the East Midlands Empowerment Partnership website, which has now been merged into the One EM website following the closure of the East Midlands Improvement and Efficiency Partnership (EMEP). As part of this, we re-launched the Community Empowerment network, which by March 2012 had increased to 85 members, all receiving a dedicated monthly Empowerment e-bulletin. For further information visit www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/communityempowerment.

As part of our involvement with the EMEP, during March 2012 we organised a series of three Community Insight Visits, and accompanying case studies, to nominated community organisations across the region, enabling participants to gain an insight into their work. We would like to thank Soft Touch Arts, Ecoworks and the Oasis Community Centre for hosting these visits.

EVDC East Midlands

One EM continues to act as secretariat for the England Volunteering Development Council (EVDC) East Midlands network, which increased to over 188 members in 2011/12, who all receive a dedicated monthly EVDC East Midlands e-bulletin. For further information visit www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/evdc.

In November 2011, 60 delegates attended the network's regional volunteering conference, which included key note speeches by the Director of the Institute for Volunteering Research and the Locality Lead for Community Organisers. Network members also participated in an annual survey on changes to volunteering in the region.

Safer Future Communities

In February 2011, One EM was appointed to work in partnership with NAVCA and CLINKS to run four local networks engaging communities with Police and Crime Commissioners in Derbyshire, Lincolnshire, Northamptonshire and Nottinghamshire, as part of the Safer Future Communities programme. For further information visit www.oneeastmidlands.org.uk/sfc.

Regional Voices

In each of the nine English regions there is a sister network to One EM, which champions the engagement of the third sector within the region. On a national level, Regional Voices connects each of the regional networks, enabling the critical connection between national, regional and local infrastructure. For further information visit www.regionalvoices.net.

The Department of Health Strategic Partnership programme is one of the most collaborative contracts delivered through Regional Voices. Regional Voices provides the vital link allowing One EM to connect from local to national and champion the VCS in the new and changing landscape.

Thank You

One East Midlands would like to thank the following organisations for their support in 2011/12.

One East Midlands is a registered charity, working with the voluntary and community and wider third sector.

One East Midlands brings together organisations that support voluntary and community groups across the region to influence and shape policy, improve services and provide a single point of contact at a regional level for all stakeholders.

One East Midlands is accountable to its members: voluntary and community organisations, frontline groups, public and private sector agencies. Through its membership, the sector is able to influence One East Midlands' work and ensure that the organisation does what it sets out to do.
